

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Did ja notice the yarn about the woman who was robbed of her purse by a pickpocket on a Chicago bus?

Remembering the old adage about a criminal returning to the scene of his malefactor, she refused to leave the bus.

She sat on it most of the day, and assertedly, finally got her man.

That's a funny situation in Chicago when in Richmond, the police are holding five purses for their owners who didn't seem to notice they were stolen.

That may sound like easy money but the local officers will have to have pretty good identification before they will release the articles.

All the lodges in Richmond have started moving around.

Which makes them very difficult to find.

They move in and out.

Now you see 'em, now you don't.

The minute one organization leaves a free night in a local hall, another lodge thinks that just the place it has always wanted and off it goes.

Very, very confusing, particularly when the meeting nights are changed too.

O'Connell Kidnaper Arrested

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Aug. 8.—UP—Manny Strowel, Albany underworld figure, was arrested today on a warrant charging him with kidnapping John J. O'Connell, Jr., son of the politically powerful O'Connell family.

The arrest took place in the Sullivan County courthouse shortly after Supreme Court Justice Sidney Foster released Strowel on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by Daniel Prior, Albany attorney.

Strowel, who acted as intermediary in the case, had been held by police for questioning more than a week ago and Daniel Prior, his attorney, sought his liberation.

The formal charge, however, permitted Strowel's arrest.

Police Chief David Smull, who had come here from Albany, with Assistant District Attorney James McGuinness, two guards and Strowel, served the warrant in an ante room of the courthouse.

Justice Foster had sustained the contentions of Prior that the intermediary was being detained illegally. He had not been looked until today, although he was held for questioning more than a week.

The charge contained in the warrant, however, permitted Strowel's arrest.

Warrants for Three
It was reported warrants also had been issued for arrest of three Bronx men. It was somewhere in the Bronx that young O'Connell was held captive three weeks before his release Sunday-July 30.

The youth was kidnapped in front of his home early July 7. Several men surrounded his automobile. One struck him over the head. He was taken to New York City in an automobile and held there until Strowel and Louis Snyder, the intermediary's counsel, paid the kidnapers $40,000 ransom.

Pale and unshaven, Strowel was placed in the county jail after the warrant had been served. Authorities planned to return him to Albany tonight and confine him to Albany county jail pending arraignment probably tomorrow, on the charge.

REPAIRS ON JUNIOR HIGH ARE DELAYED

The biggest problem the Richmond Union high school board had before it yesterday when it assembled in regular monthly session was how to get the children of the west side to and from the high school and junior high schools.

It seems, according to school board history, that this has been a worry of some considerable extent for quite a while.

Chairman Al Hughes this year insisted upon bringing the matter to some definite answer. He suggested new time tables for the school busses, even drew some up, but the elimination of one trip a day into Hercules didn't meet with the whole approval of the school authorities.

Get Car Tickets

In the past, it seems, children on the west side who were unable to pay car fare were furnished with car tickets. The school district got these tickets at quite a rebate. Other children paid their way to school or were transported back and forth in private automobiles.

Now, according to tentative action taken yesterday, all the children of the west side will be given free transportation, either by street car or by bus. The board couldn't quite make up its collective mind on the mode of transportation.

Works on Plans

L. P. Stone, architect hired to draw plans for the alteration and strengthening of the Roosevelt Junior high school, declared unsafe, reported that he was working hard on his blueprints and hoped to have them ready for state inspection within a week or so.

Actual work on the school however cannot be expected very soon, it was plain to be seen, and the board has doubts about being able to use the structure again before the spring term.

According to Superintendent Walter T. Helms, the seventh and eighth grade students will be housed at the Lincoln grammar school until further notice, and the ninth grade boys and girls will be taken care of at the Longfellow school.

Kensington District

On motion of Ira Scott, the board agreed that all children of the Kensington district who desired to attend the Berkeley schools could do so providing they pay the difference in tuition fees, in other words, at no expense to the Richmond school district.

It was reported that the painting job at the high school had been completed and the board stamped it "O. K."

E. M. Downer, board member, was on the job yesterday. It was the first meeting Downer had attended since the new regime went into office, his absence having been prompted through illness.

Gets "Blue Eagle"

IN TOKEN of having pledged her support to the blanket code of the National Recovery Administration, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, displays the "Blue Eagle" emblem on the door of her Val-Kill Furniture Shop at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Organized Labor To Check NRA Violators

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—UP—

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor announced today that organized labor will cooperate with the national recovery administration by reporting violations of President Roosevelt's blanket, temporary and permanent code.

This will mean nearly 3,000,000 "eyes" for General Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator through out the country. The federation head today advised the central labor unions in each city of his plan.

Reports by individual workers will be made first to the local central union and then relayed to national federation headquarters here, Green explained. Green then will report to Johnson for appropriate action.

Likewise, organized labor will report any labor difficulties to the national mediation board recently created to adjust differences and prevent strikes under President Roosevelt's "strike moratorium" program.

A second meeting of this board was called tonight to organize its work. Several strikes exist in various parts of the country. It is the board's intention to investigate these at once and seek settlements pending formulation of permanent codes for the industries involved.

The board is awaiting advice on procedure from its absent chairman, Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, New York, who is in Geneva, Switzerland.

What's a Purse or Two Among the Dancing Girls of Richmond
If you don't believe the depression is over, the Richmond police department can prove it.

When it gets to the point where missing purses aren't reported, it's a sure sign that prosperity is in full force again.

The local authorities are holding five purses that were recovered from three juveniles who admitted "lifting" them last Saturday night from a Richmond dance hall.

The police have the purses but a search of their records reveals that their loss had never been reported.

COUNCIL WRESTLES WITH CITY BUDGET

Limited Kills Truck Driver At Sunnyvale

SUNNYVALE, Aug. 8.—UP—A San Francisco truck driver was killed, another man injured, and passengers on a train shaken up when the northbound Lark, Southern Pacific train, hit a truck on a crossing here today. The front wheels of the locomotive were dented.

John G. Grubb, 53, was killed and his companion, Ulysses Winton, 50, San Francisco, injured critically. The truck was demolished.

Both were employees of the Phoenix Outdoor Advertising company, 141 Fifth street, San Francisco. They were believed by state highway patrolmen to have been engaged in posting signs along the highway.

PASSENGERS FINISH TRIP ON LOCAL TRAIN

Passengers were transferred to a local train which followed the last passenger train.

The local used a siding to pass the Lark. The passengers reached San Francisco, more than an hour late.

Investigators said the engine of the truck stalled on the right-of-way just as the speeding passenger train bore down on the machine.

Grubb and Winton, seated inside the cab of the truck, were apparently unable to open the door in time to leap to safety.

Impact Jolts Train Passengers

With a roar of grinding brakes the locomotive smashed head-on into the stalled truck, dragging it for 200 feet along the tracks before coming to a halt, a mass of twisted wreckage.

Impact of the collision threw the trucks of the locomotive from the rails and severely jolted passengers in the coaches. None was injured, however.

Grubb was badly mangled when taken dead from the debris of the truck. Winton also was severely crushed.

An ambulance raced with him to a San Jose hospital. He was unconscious, and evidently in a dying condition.

Authorities were unable to immediately ascertain which was driver of the machine.

WAR LOOMS IN EUROPE
Tension in Europe over the Austria-German controversy grew today with the announcement that France and Great Britain had agreed to take "concerted action" at Geneva if Germany renews her anti-Austrian demonstrations on the Austrian frontier.

VIENNA, Aug. 8.—The Austrian government was awaiting further details today of the killing of an auxiliary policeman near the German border. When those details have been received the government will decide whether to take diplomatic steps.

It was uncertain whether the attackers were Austrians or Germans, whether the shots were fired on German or Austrian soil and whether the killers—if they were Austrians—came directly from some point in Austria or recrossed the border from Germany after getting across there.

In view of this confusing situation the government preferred to withhold official comment and action until the facts were cleared up.

Wife Foiled in Suicide Attempt
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Thrift Baker, wife of a Pittsburgh industrial worker, was recovering at her home, 242 East Eighth street, today, from poisoning assertedly taken in a suicide attempt.

When the woman told her husband early this morning that she had taken poison he hurriedly called a doctor. Emergency treatment seemingly arrested the effects of the poison.

Baker found a note written by his wife which upbraided him and asked that "good byes" be expressed to her friends.

Machado Given Ultimatum to Take Vacation

HAVANA, Aug. 8.—UP—The United Press was informed by a usually reliable high army source tonight that United States Ambassador Sumner Welles had delivered an ultimatum to President Machado calling for his withdrawal by noon tomorrow.

The informant said Welles demanded Machado take a vacation to the expiration of term in office on penalty of United States intervention if he refused.

Similar reports were widespread in Havana.

President Machado tonight issued a statement saying that "I am and will continue to be president of the republic with all my constitutional prerogatives, none of which I may cede without betraying the confidence placed in me by the Cuban people."

Oakland Family Escapes Death In Local Crash

A miraculous escape from death was the experience last evening of S. Duncan of 1632 Twenty-fourth street, Oakland, and four children riding in his car.

Duncan was involved in an automobile collision with J. A. Hendrix of 412 West Richmond avenue early in the evening. The crash occurred at the intersection of Harney and San Pablo avenues.

The Oakland man's car overturned pinning the occupants beneath. All were released uninjured by passersby with the aid of Hendrix who also escaped serious injury.

Both cars were badly damaged.

Cartoonist Talks to Alpha Masons

F. C. Shallenberger, worshipful master, announced that next Tuesday night Alpha lodge will be guests of Thousand Oaks lodge, Berkeley. The local members will confer the third degree.

Rehearsal was held after the session.

CUTTING OF EXPENSES IS PROBLEM

The second budget hearing of the council was held last evening and much ground was accomplished.

Some suggested changes were made, but in two instances these matters were referred to committees to report at the next meeting to be held on August 23.

In connection with the police department, a captain and an inspector will be appointed, but these will not increase the budget, as men now in the department will be promoted, but no additional men will be put on the force.

It was suggested that the ladder of the fire be remodeled at an estimated cost of $662.50, but after some discussion the matter was referred to a committee.

If the rebuilding of the city is done it will facilitate a new rear assembly, power brakes for the truck part and also the trailer, and smaller front wheels.

Will Take Cut

It was reported that City Attorney T. M. Carlson was perfectly willing to take a reduction in his salary of $600 a year, as he informed the council several months ago.

Inspection of food stores and meat markets, came in for considerable discussion. Councilman Otto R. Lindewitz insisting that inspection were not being made.

No Inspections

He said his store had not been inspected for over a year by the sanitary inspectors, but meat had been inspected by the city veterinarian.

Ludewitz said he had talked with eighteen other storekeepers and they said no inspections had been made so far as they knew. The matter was turned over to the health committee for a report.

After thoroughly going into the matter it was decided that no further reductions could be made in the building, plumbing and electrical departments.

Some objections was made to the $12,000 yearly contract with a local hospital for emergency service. Members of the council assertedly there were two other hospitals in the city and they were willing to take care of emergency cases, taking their chances of getting payments from the patients.

Name Committee

A committee consisting of Councilman Samuel S. Ripley, Mattie A. Chandler, and Dr. A. B. Hinkley was appointed to see whether a new arrangement could be made satisfactory to all of the hospitals, and at the same time save the city some money.

Provisions for repairs to the substructure to wharf No. 1, and the installation of a tender system, as provided in the tentative budget, brought forth considerable discussion.

Many of the members contended the matter should be left to the city manager and the city engineer, as they were capable of determining the work that should be done. Finally it was determined that a personal inspection of the wharf should be made by the council, so that the new members could determine for themselves the necessary repairs.

It is believed at the next budget session all matters that have been up for discussion will be finally determined.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—UP—Washington's Senators put on their own little recovery act at the Stadium today, defeating the Yankees 5 to 1 and increasing their lead in the American League to two full games.

Faced with the loss of their lead unless they won, the Senators called upon Earl Whitehill to do the pitching. The Yanks were able to garner but five hits off his assortment of slants and fire balls and save for the fourth inning were completely and thoroughly blanked.

Opposed to Whitehill was young Johnny Allen, the former Carolina hotel clerk. The Senators won the ball game in the fourth when singles by Goslin, Manush and Cronin and an elegant wild throw by Crosetti, netted two runs.

In the fourth Combs opened with a single and scurried to third when Doy Sewell sliced one to right field. The Colonel scored.

World's record for this distance is 15 2-5 seconds, set by Madinat Joe at Miami, Florida. Pete Craig hunk up 41 2-5 seconds on El Cerrito's first attempt at this distance last November. World's mark, however, was made from a running start.

Drifting Blues, winner of his first start a month ago, came back last night at El Cerrito at $21, $11 and $10.80 across, and showed enough speed to warrant being moved to better races. Chic Sales, also good after a slump, made it two straight. El Cerrito's double option buyers, happy over picking two favorites sets last night, look anxiously at Majors Prize and Gallant Due, two newcomers, in tonight's ninth. Cash Due may be favored.

Just so long as two local teams go around claiming the city championship there never will be any peace, so today those two clubs are going to get together and settle the argument once and for all.

The Richmond Produce team and the Lambrecht club have decided to decide which is entitled to the local baseball crown and will play this evening on the First street diamond. The "play ball" signal is set for 5:15 o'clock.

For many months the Producers held the city title unmolested, but a few weeks ago they were nudged out of it by the City Recreation team.

"Now," says Harry Skow, manager of the Producers, "we are going to get that title back, and no monkey business. When we lost to the City Recreation fellows we had a Three-C league schedule to worry about but nothing like that is worrying us now."

The surprise in tonight's game will be the introduction of Ar-buckle, Richmond patrolman, as a moundsman. Arbuckle will show his favorite twisters to the Lambrechts and may also chuck against the City Recreation next Sunday.

Hal Skow has announced the rest of his lineup as follows: Robb, 2b; Prolo, 2b; Wickesser, ss; Gualdoni, c; Scarsella, 1b; Handucci, lf; Pinto, cf; Hilderbrand, rf.

Manager Louis Rattao of the Lambrecht company team declared today that Hal Skow and his followers will never get a chance to play for the city title because, he explains, they won't get by today's game.

Rattao announces his lineup for the game as follows:

Sanfilippo, 2b; Gordon, 3b; Tocchini, ss; Klobas, 1b; Wickesser, c; Bishop, lf; Ferrari, cf; Bartoli, rf; Roy Banducci, 1b; Carrazzo, Brandl, Caldera or Pinto, c. Utility: F. Agrusa, Hansen, Rattaro and Caldera.

Board to Probe
Status of Vines

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—UP—The United States Lawn Tennis association has started an investigation into Ellsworth Vines amateur status.

Louis J. Carruthers, chairman of the amateur rules committee of the U. S. L. T. A. admitted this today. He would not speculate upon the outcome.

Vines told the United Press "Nobody has said anything to me about this matter."

It has been no secret for some time that Vines was interested in capitalizing upon his great name.

NO SALES TAX REQUIRED ON CHICKEN FEED

Farm Bureau members are being advised at their meetings this month that the sales tax does not apply to feeds purchased by them for their poultry and livestock. These articles are not exempt but the question was raised as to whether the tax would apply to foodstuffs sold to commercial poultrymen, dairymen and other livestock producers, where the feed eventually comes—component part of the commodity produced.

The joint committee on revenue and taxation of both houses of the legislature, as well as representatives of the state board of equalization, agreed that, according to the wording of the law, the tax should not apply, and that therefore, the interpretation of the definition of a retail sale should be as follows:

Resolved, that it is the sense of this committee that it is the intent of Sections 2 and 3 of Senate Bill 1211, that receipts of sales of tangible personal property to manufacturers, producers or processors, which enter into and become an ingredient or component part of the tangible personal property which they manufacture, produce or process for resale, are not taxable and that the fact that the article manufactured, produced or processed is in a different form or of a different character is immaterial, and that poultry, dairy and other livestock feeds are deemed to become component parts of the eggs, milk, meat and other livestock products produced for resale.

The same ruling will apply to box shooks, for instance, sold to the fruit producer or to anyone who packs fruit for resale when the box goes with the fruit as an integral part of the sale, or when its value is included in the sale of the fruit.

If, on the other hand, the box is returned to the packer or producer after the fruit is removed, then the last purchaser in whom the title resides will pay the tax on the box even if the fruit is taxed at a later stage in its movement to market.

85,000 In 3 States Sign NRA Contract

Nearly 85,000 merchants in California, Nevada and Utah have signed NRA cooperation agreements, according to George Creel, district publicity director.

It was estimated that 58,037 San Francisco employees in manufacturing and wholesale fields had been brought under the Blue Eagle agreements for shorter hours and better working conditions. Many thousands more, employed by retail establishments, have been affected.

San Francisco merchants listed in NRA mounted to 8877.

NIRA to Bring Work to 50,000

Registration of merchants under the "Blue Eagle" in the California-Nevada-Utah district reached 88,233 today, Creel reported.

Nation's Daily Newspapers Are Agreeable to Recovery Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Daily newspaper publishers submitted a code to the National Recovery administration today which was described by Howard Davis, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, as supporting "the highest possible degree" of President Roosevelt's recovery program.

The code contained provisions designed to protect the constitutional freedom of the press. An understanding was included stating that the code should not be construed as authorizing the licensing of publishers or as permitting injunction proceedings which would restrain publication of newspapers.

Code Provisions
The code would permit restricted employment of persons under 15 years of age carrying newspapers where school attendance is not interfered with.

Business office and clerical forces would be limited to 10 hours per week. Labor contracts would stand unimpaired under the code.

Mechanical employees not under contract would be limited to 40 hours a week except that they might work a maximum of 44 hours within any six months period. Maximum hour provisions would not apply to professional persons nor to executives receiving more than $5 a week.

Business Office
Business office employees would be paid on a graduated scale ranging from a minimum of $12 a week in towns of less than 2,500 population up to a minimum of $15 a week in cities of more than 500,000 population.

Such full time employees would be paid as much for the shorter week as paid heretofore in event full time is worked.

In his letter of transmittal, Davis stated that the code was submitted in behalf of daily newspapers.

Members of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, The Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, The New England Publishers Association and other organizations of publishers.

Maintain High Wage
"This code," Davis said in his letter of transmittal, "provides for a shortening of hours, for minimum wages higher than provided in the blanket agreement, for the maintainance of existing contracts, and the reservation of the constitutional right of a free press which cannot be abridged by the application of a licensing system or the use of injunctions to suppress a newspaper.

MOVIE STRIKE MAY SPREAD

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—A mass meeting of striking technical men today was told by leaders of the walkout from Hollywood movie studios that laboratory workers in New York would be called out today in an effort to forestall the producers from developing their negative films there.

William C. Elliot, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, will serve notice of the eastern laboratory strike, the gathering was informed.

Strike headquarters issued a statement saying that the producers over the week-end had decided to send negatives East because strike conditions in Hollywood laboratories had precluded proper treatment of the films here.

The producers made no comment on the spread of the strike. The number of employers who would be affected in the East was not given. Employers of the striking technicians have announced periodically that their production schedules are almost at normal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—To assure that both stage workers and management get a square deal, the National Recovery Administration will import its industrial advisors direct from Broadway for the hearing on a code of fair competition for the legitimate theater industry.

Mrs. Mary Rumsey, chairman of the consumers advisory board of the administration, today named Heywood Brown, newspaper columnist and Joseph Wood, critic, to represent the theatergoers at the hearing.

S. F. TO MAKE GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE STEEL

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Steel mills of San Francisco will fabricate at least 10,000 tons of structural steel for the Golden Gate bridge.

Announcement that San Francisco mills will be given the job came today from James Reed, general manager of the bridge.

He said that the order is the largest ever to be handled in San Francisco.

Fabrication of the steel will mean employment for from 200 to 300 men in local steel plants for the next 18 months, according to indications.

Word was received here from the East that the huge steel girders for the Golden Gate span have been built in Pennsylvania mills. The girders are en route to the bay region aboard a freighter.

Steel to be fabricated in San Francisco will be used in building the two huge approach spans and viaducts on the Marina approach road through the Presidio.

Warning Issued to Smokers In Autos

CONCORD, Aug. 8.—Warnings to motorists who toss lighted cigarettes from their machines had been issued for the second time today as the result of two week-end grass fires.

One blaze on the Stubbs ranch near Pacheco, burned over almost 100 acres Sunday afternoon and firemen were forced to battle for more than an hour before bringing it under control.

The other fire occurred Saturday night and burned a large grass area and fences at the Dura slaughter house on Willow Pass road. Both were said to be caused by cigarettes.

Local officials pointed out that throwing lighted matches or cigarettes from vehicles constitutes a misdemeanor, and indicated that they will prosecute all cases brought to their attention.

SALINAS, Aug. 8.—UP—An impending strike of 3000 Salinas valley Filipinos employed in lettuce and sugar beet fields was postponed today pending the outcome of a shippers-growers meeting tomorrow night.

They ask an increase from 20 to 30 cents an hour for lettuce workers and an improvement in the sliding wage scale for sugar beet workers.

Know Your Firms Richmond Merchant Established 1901

In this column of "Know Your Firms" we have endeavored to point out to our readers the advantages of dealing with this and that firm in their various lines of business. In pointing these firms out to our readers we have felt that there are real advantages in doing business with them, because we have found that these firms make every effort to conform to the needs and demands of the buying public.

A local business firm that we know offers real advantages in trading is O. R. Ludewig's Richmond Market, which is conveniently located at 510 Macdonald avenue here in Richmond. O. R. Ludewig is the proprietor and manager, and incidentally Mr. Ludewig is a pioneer merchant in Richmond having owned other retail markets here in this city since 1901. Mr. Ludewig is now a city councilman and has been identified with the best interests of the city for a number of years.

Ludewig's Richmond Market is not just another so-called corner bargain house, it is a market that is devoted to the selling of Fresh and Cured Meats, Vegetables and Groceries, and they offer at all times a high type of service, which identifies the market as a friendly shopping center.

You have undoubtedly noticed their advertisements each week, these are not just leaders to get you into the store, they are every day bargains that merit the trade and save you money.

Now here is the program—If you have never visited Ludewig's Richmond Market at 510 Macdonald avenue, here in Richmond, do so on your next shopping trip downtown. Look over their large displays of meats, vegetables and groceries, compare their quality and prices with other trading centers and we believe that you too will agree with us that Ludewig's Richmond Market is a good place to trade, and that the reason for their activity is simply because they give value, which brings the customer back again. Look for their circular each week, describing the many bargains in their grocery and meat department.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—On the hot test August night in the history of the weather bureau, while the local citizenry were falling to the right and the left prostrate from the sweltering blasts, a small band of personages from Broadway, Park Avenue and Hollywood turned up (many in hermetically sealed full dress) on the Pennsylvania Road to hear maestro Phil Harris make his New York debut. This fellow Harris, the talk says, is being built up for the 1934 erupting sensation making him nominee 56,000 for the position. News on such a day was at a premium, and so we dropped in.

Wiley Post, Jimmie Mattern, Clyde Panthorn and Clarence Chamberlin turned up to represent the world of aviation. Mary Warburton, Otto Kahn, Walter Chrysler, Jr., and Billy Seeman were the socialites. Johnson, Harry Richmond, Helen Morgan (who sat on a chair and laid off the pinos) Robert Halliday and Georges Metaxa made up the Broadway delegation. Hollywood sent Claire Windsor, Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg, her producer hubby, who is in New York looking for a few handsome women who can sing, which might mean that the musical picture genre is still gaining favor.

No doubt you've frequently wondered where radio comedians get their "jokes." Now it can be told. A writer for one of the prominent comes subscribes to a clipping list, but for stories on oceanographers. Every time the bureau runs across a story of an old man or woman celebrating his or her birthday, this writer sends him a letter, a form letter, reading as follows: "Congratulations on your birthday. Will you please send me a joke which you remember from your earliest childhood?"

The joke arrives and a few weeks later is delivered into your loud-speaker. As Givert would say, "How do you like that?"

CHAPTER VII
EDA LOU, inexperienced as she was in the ways of the theater, was quick to grasp the plan of the summer stock company once it began to take shape. At a party one evening, even before negotiations for securing a theater were complete, she had sounded out her "crowd" on the notion. They all entered into it and proclaimed it the perfect idea. Clyde Withers, who had just come out of Yale the previous June, pleaded with Eda Lou to get him in to do the assistant stage-managing. He had been through the Baker Playshop and swore he'd scrub the stage if need be, for nothing, if she'd just get him in on the project.

Eda Lou did. Then Bob Coe got her into a corner at another party.

"Listen, Eda Lou, could you get someone to play the lead? That would give her a chance to mix with the crowd this summer; get the crowd used to her."

"But we're not paying salaries. Bob. It's cooperative. And if I know Inocence, she wouldn't mind of working for less than a hundred a week."

"Would you try and get her in—if I paid the salary? Of course, she might know that. You see, she doesn't want to give up the stage. I want her to. This would be a way of letting her see—well, that I'll meet her halfway."

"I call it mighty sporting. And it's not a bad idea. But can she act?"

"Heavens! I don't know. She was in the Follies two years ago. Which doesn't mean at all mean she can act. You see, Bob, even for you, we can't jeopardize the success of the company."

"Well, maybe she can act. Will you try her out? Make it look like you're offering her the job as high as a hundred and fifty a week. I'll pay the tariff—but not a word about that to her. It would ruin the whole thing."

The next day, the Bothe-Hardwick Players, Inc., took a lease on the Ideal Playhouse in the village. It was the theater Eda Lou had originally suggested. But upon thorough examination, it was found to be far less than "ideal."

FOR an untold number of years the rats had played merry-go-round with its insides. As the Bothe-Hardwick Players, Inc., all four of them—stood on the stage of the darkened house dusty and drab, they eyed it skeptically.

"This old ark is going to need plenty before we can open it to the elite of Long Island," Tad said ruefully.

"I've seen worse—and I've seen better!" admitted Eleanor. Their voices catapulted back at them grotesquely.

"Acoustics are probably abominable," said John. "Say, Eda Lou and Eda Lou go into the back of the house there while Eleanor and I run through a scene. See if you get the lines."

Tad and Eda Lou scrambled down from the stage, up the shadowed aisle, and stood in the back. The one bald light on the stage shone grotesquely, making the figures of the other two seem strangely ghostly.

SUMMER STOCK

by LOIS BULL

© 1933 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Eda Lou Smith, a society girl bored with the round of parties, decides to go on the stage. She meets two old time troupers, John Haynes Bothe and his wife Eleanor Hardwick, who have plans for a summer stock company on Long Island. Receiving his son, On and on they went, quite as if the theater were filled. Eleanor seemed to slip years off her shoulders. Even in three clothes she took on, in Eda Lou's imagination, the garden track of the Camille—the sad, tired Camille—who promised to give up her lover for his own good. John and the father superiorly.

Then came to Eda Lou's eyes. Unconsciously, she put her hand on Tad's arm in the darkness. "Aren't they wonderful?" she whispered.

Two of the best troupers that ever walked the stage, Eda Lou. By now, well put on "Camille, old as it is, and the audiences love it." They always love it. Then, having lowered, "Shush—listen to this."

And they listened while the two troupers went through one of the oldest tear-jerking scenes known to stock. Suddenly a deep voice boomed out, "Get the music all right at once!" It startled both of them, so lost were they to the moment.

"Perfectly," Tad shouted back. "Now take it from the balcony," John suggested.

Tad and Eda Lou stumbled up the dusty stairs.

"Do the Hamlet soliloquy," Tad called. "If we can hear that, anything can be heard."

Right, my lad. And Eleanor will run through the Juliet scene in her bed-chamber."

LIKE magic, John became the brooding Dane. Many times had Eda Lou seen Hamlet played. Yet she would never forget this shabby, shabby, deserted theater, the grim half-light, the power of this Hamlet. John Bothe was an old man! But his Hamlet was young, fiery, brooding, half-sane, half-mad. This was it! John Bothe—this was Hamlet!

As he finished his lines, they called, "Marvelous! Perfect!" Then, Eleanor tossing off her hat and loosening her silvery hair about her flower-like face, began the Juliet scene.

"Farewell! God knows when we shall meet again. I have a faint cold fear thrills through my veins. That almost freezes up the heat of life."

But this sad, courageous Juliet—it couldn't be Eleanor! But it was. An ageless Eleanor. Eda Lou whispered, "It's a miracle. Juliet was only fourteen, and Eleanor is an old woman."

"The eternal actress, Eda Lou," said Tad. "You've just heard two great troupers. Not great actors, but troupers from the word 'go'."

A LITTLE later, as they sat around a dusty table they had found back-stage, with a stubby pencil marking harsh scratches on a sheet of paper as they figured this and that, and this and something else, Eda Lou for the first time felt the real urge of what the theater meant. That day, the theater got into Eda Lou's veins. Not the theater of moving picture palaces with their slick, gaudy stage shows, not the theater of Forty-second Street, but the theater of a different world—the theater of Shakespeare, Henry Miller, Sir Herbert Beerhohn Tree, Ellen Terry, Frohman and all the rest. She felt their ghosts standing in this little theater on Long Island.

Suddenly the four of them looked up, startled. What was that? From the vault of the dark theater came low moans. Then a crashing of wood, a heavy thud—and silence. The four on the stage stared at one another, speechless. Then once again, through the empty auditorium, came moans, low and ghostly.

U.S. CONTROL FOR RAISINS FOR DIRECTORS IN HEAVY BATTLE

FRESNO, Aug. 8.—UP—Government control of raisins, appointment of an administrator to enforce the code and Federal guarantee of a minimum price to growers were approved today by a statewide committee which drafted an industry agreement.

The committee recommended a minimum price of four cents a pound for Thompsons and three cents for muscats and sultanas of standard quality, but refused to fix a minimum price for raisins on the theory packers would dump present stocks on the market.

The group declined to fix a minimum wage scale of 25 cents an hour, although favoring higher pay. It approved licensing of processors, inspection of raisins.

A clinical thermometer must be called a necessity and it should be a guide as to when to send for a physician. Every mother should learn how to use and care for a thermometer before an occasion arrives. Ask your physician or a nurse how to read and how to shake down the column of mercury after use. After using the thermometer, it should be thoroughly shaken down, washed in clean cold water and rubbed well with a clean towel.

OIL COMPANY EMPLOYEES TO TALK WAGES

MARTINEZ, Aug. 8.—Announcement was made today that the annual wage conference between representatives and employees of the Shell Oil company will be held on August 15 irrespective of the NRA code being mapped in Washington, D. C., for the oil industry.

Howard Decker, J. B. Campbell, J. H. Wright and T. R. Borich have been selected as delegates to the wage conference from the Martinez refinery of the company, while D. M. Day, superintendent of the local refinery, will be one of the Shell representatives.

The alternate delegates are Carl Bennett, Clarence Palmer, Frank Costa and Ralph Erend.

With the conference a week distant it is expected that the oil industry code will have been adopted before opening of the session between company officials and workers.

The annual conference is held in Los Angeles and workmen's delegates from the company oil fields, refineries and pipe line groups are present.

In discussion of renewal of the memorandum of terms, consideration will be given to a 30 day clause under which either group can call for discussion of any subject embraced in the agreement.

Of interest to oil workers throughout Contra Costa county is the fact that the 1929 agreement of the Shell company on wages and working conditions is being used as a basis of discussions on employment problems in framing the NRA code relating to the oil industry.

Cleaners Union Plans Protest On Wage Scale

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—UP.—Attacking the minimum wage scale planned for a local code to be submitted to the NRA, the San Francisco Cleaners, Pressers and Dyers union today threatened a general strike.

The scale provides a $13 minimum for women and $20 for men for a 40-hour week. The union asks a $22.50 minimum for both men and women.

"Wholesale cleaning prices have advanced 66 2/3 percent, and wages should be increased somewhat in proportion," a union spokesman said.

Jail Break Plotter Held By Authorities

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—UP.—Charged with plotting a convict's escape which resulted in the Kansas City massacre of five men, a suburban roadhouse owner was held under $50,000 bond tonight by federal authorities.

The suspect, Louis Stecci, alias "Doc" Stecci, pleaded not guilty to the charge when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Stecci, authorities declared, conspired to free Frank Nash, the convict who was slain with four others June 17 in a daring attack before the Kansas City Union station.

Five Killed
 Nash, a Federal prisoner, two Kansas City policemen, an Oklahoma officer and a Federal agent were victims of the miscarried plot.

Charged with Stecci were Verne C. Miller, notorious outlaw whom officials believe is now in Chicago, and Herbert Farmer Anthis, wife, Joplin, Mo., residents.

Arrest of Miller is expected shortly, declared Melvin Purvis, chief of the government's bureau of identification here.

Hearing Set
 Commissioner Walker set August 22 for hearing Stecci's case after the latter refused to waive extradition to Missouri to face action there.

Italy's Flyers Make Long Jump Across the Sea

PONTAUDEL, GAIA, Azores, Aug. 8.—UP.—The 24 Italian seaplanes commanded by General Italo Balbo, air minister, bobbed at moorings in the picture-sque waters of the semi-tropical Azores tonight at the end of a 1200 mile dash over the Atlantic in formation from Newfoundland.

The squadrons were split up into two sections tonight, however, General Balbo leading five groups of three planes each on to Ponta Del Gada, on the easternmost island of St. Miguel here, while General Pellegrini, second in command, led the other nine planes to Horta on Fayal, some 150 miles to the west.

No Mishaps
 They were in communication by radio this evening, and all made the daring overwater hop without mishap, on almost train-like schedule.

General Pellegrini's three squadrons reached Horta at 2:49 p.m., E. D. T., and General Balbo's group arrived here at Ponta Del Gada's harbor at 3:15 a.m., E. D. T.

They averaged a little better than 100 miles an hour, the squadrons having started from Shoal Harbor, Nfld., at 3:45 a.m., E. D. T., for the Azores. The flying weather was perfect with light northeast breeze and General Balbo and his men alighted easily on the rippling harbor. Harbor craft sent up a great screeching of whistles and sirens.

The harbor inns were freed for use by the Italians and local craft moored elsewhere for the night.

Seaside Settling
 At Horta, some 150 miles to the west on Fayal island perfect weather conditions also were reported for the arrival of the Italians in a scenic setting. The mountain Pico, crowned with white clouds, shimmered in the heat above the flat, placid green water of the sea.

The silvery planes contrasted with the sea and the green fields, the quaint old white houses and the dark walls of ancient Santa Cruz Fortress.

They came in rapidly, one formation after the other, and anchored to the nodding buoys for the night. Their crews were given quarters on the base ship, Citroni Catania, here.

Worst Part Covered
 The fliers were elated with the success of their flight from Newfoundland, and felt the worst of their remarkable mass flight from Italy to Chicago and return was behind them. Their next hop will be to Orbetello airport, their home 614 in Italy, with a possible stop in Portugal, 800 miles due east over the Atlantic.

At Horta, General Pellegrini, in an interview with the United Press, expressed satisfaction that the longest leg of their return flight was accomplished without a single mishap.

Run Into Storm
 "We ran into fog for about 100 miles out of Shoal Harbor," the general said, "and then came a long stretch of low lying clouds which broke up into a storm about halfway here. It was of short duration, though, and after that we had a perfect day, with blue skies and a flat sea."

Pellegrini looked extremely tired but answered questions willingly.

OLD LAW MAY TIE UP U. S. FARM RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—UP.—A law passed by congress in 1875 threatened tonight to play havoc with President Roosevelt's farm relief program.

The ancient statute provides simply that when the government makes payment to a man, it first must deduct any money that man owes the government.

Tomorrow the President's cabinet advisory board will receive opinion from Attorney General Cummings on whether the law applies to the millions of dollars the government intends to pay farmers in return for their promise to reduce crops.

Many of these farmers are indebted deeply to the government for seed, feed and crop production loans.

If such loans must be deducted from the forthcoming payment to the farmers of the agricultural adjustment administration, fear is predicted that the indebted farmers will refuse to cut their acreage.

If the attorney general holds that the 1875 law still holds good, the cabinet board is expected to seek means to circumvent it.

State Staff on Five-day Week

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8.—UP.—The state government today completed plans for placing approximately 1000 employees on a five-day week basis August 21 and hiring new employees wherever necessary to carry on the work.

An attempt will be made to retain the employees at their present salary schedule, although condition of the general fund will necessitate reductions for some.

The five day week was provided in the Burns bill, passed by the legislature, Governor Rolph's veto was overridden.

When the NRA movement was started, the governor decided to use the Burns bill as a means of swinging the state government into line with the national recovery program.

ALBANY TAX RATE CUT TO $1.43 FIGURE

ALBANY, Aug. 8.—A tax rate of $1.43 representing a 7-cent decrease over last year's rate, was adopted today by the city council for the present fiscal year.

The council passed a budget of $73,125 as compared with last year's budget of $78,088.

In moving adoption of the budget with the decreased tax rate, Councilman M. J. Blackwell pointed out that in addition, there has been a $133,000 reduction in assessed valuation of property.

Thus the 7-cent reduction is in reality a reduction of about 19 cents, he said.

The lower budget was effected through rigid economies in all city departments. There have been no salary cuts.

Miss Lyons was found in a Watsonville rooming house after she had been reported missing for a month.

Police Captain D. D. Dowst said Lyons was to be investigated in connection with his daughter's statements he put her to work when she was 13 and required her to give him her earnings.
